

All India Institute of Medical Sciences, Rajkot, Gujarat

Department of Pharmacology

Role Play as a part of ATCOM

Role play was conducted during the practical class of “patient communication”. Students were given various case scenarios as a doctor and patient in order to emphasize on ethically correct communication skills between doctor and patient. Students actively played the role demonstrate unparalleled communications skills under guidance of faculty members of the department of Pharmacology.

